A WONDERFUL SERUM

CURED SIXTY-EIGHT OUT OF EIGHTY CASES OF CONSUMPTION.

Dr. Maragliano's Discovery in Italy Now Being Successfully Experimented with in New York.

New York Press.

A few weeks hence, if we are to believe Dr. Carlucci, the director of the Italian hospital in New York, we may witness the enemy, consumption. The doctor has three patients whom he is treating with the Maragliano serum. Dr. Carlucci is an Italian; so is Dr. Maragliano.

Dr. Carlucci, who was sent to New York to take charge of the Italian hospital by the Italian government, is a graduate of the University of Naples, and one of the greatest of the younger generation of Italian medical scientists. Dr. Maragliano is a professor in the University of Genoa, and probably the greatest medical scientist in Italy, which is saying a great deal, as in the last ten years Italy has made such strides in medical science as to place her the peer of Germany and France. So far as money is concerned, he has no ambitions. He is a scientist, pure and simple, in the employ of the Italian government, and whatever he may accomplish is the property of the Italian government. Unlike Dr. Koch, Dr. Maragliano doesn't appear with a blow of trumpets, and he doesn't

It is more than three years ago since the idea of this serum first occurred to him. It was a little idea, only a germ of an idea, and he said nothing to anybody about it, but immediately began experimenting. Last summer he read papers at the medical congresses of Bordeaux and London, in which made a few modest statements, for he appears to be as modest as he is secretive. His friends and admirers are more enthusiastic over his discovery than he is himself. He asserts nothing. He lays no claim to having done anything wonderful. He only says that he is in possession of certain facts which may interest his fellowphysicians. As he gets more facts he will give them to the public. When it has been demonstrated that his serum is an actual success he will publish his formula The latest news inclines one to the belief that we may know within the next three or four weeks the formula of his serum.

HOSPITALS ASK FOR SERUM. Dr. Carlucci, who is testing the serum in this country, is thirty years of age. He has been here five years. Like Dr. Maragliano, he is modest. He tugged his great blonde mustache-with the exception of his blonde hair and mustache he is a typical Italian of high birth-when he was asked if he thought that the cure for consumption had been discovered, and said that he hoped so, and then took the trouble to repeat several times that he would by no means commit himself any further.

"I hope so. I hope so," he declared. "Although I have had the serum only a week, requests have come to me from hospitals in all parts of the country asking that a quantity of serum be sent, in the hope that it might save the life of some patient. I have only enough for my own three patients. I have sent for more, and the Professor will send it as soon as he can. Above all, it is perfectly harmless. It cannot possibly injure the patient. I think that I may say with certainty that it is "It certainly will not cure advanced stages of consumption. When ulceration has well begun I believe that it is impossible to make a cure. Nature, when aided by artificial means, can repair an organ, it cannot replace the part of an organ which has been eaten away. No doubt the serum will prolong the life of a person in the advanced stages of consumption, but it will not cure him. Please state that clearly. It may save us from criticism that is based on false assumption.

"The injections are made on either side of the thorax every other day. The amount the injection is one cubic centimeter. My three cases are all young people. That | the guide intimating that it was evidence is the horror of consumption. Young people are its victims. Two of the cases are women. They have consumption in the first stage. The other victim is a man. He is in the second stage, his lungs having of fungi. Fruits are found which are the perfection of all that is found on the earth's injection of serum I found that the temperature of all three patients was greatly reduced. It not only was prompt evidence of the virility of the serum, but it corroborated what Professor Maragliano has said.

CURED 68 CASES OUT OF 80. "At the end of a week I find that the discharge of sputum has been greatly decreased and the physical status of the patient greatly improved. This much I can state positively. As for the rest, you must wait. I am assured that the serum does the patient no harm, and that it positively does him good. Perhaps within the next two months I can state positively that it has absolutely cured three cases of consump-

"Professor Maragliano? Of course, he has put his discovery to a practical test. He has tested it on eighty cases, and sixty-eight of them were cured. But then, you know, climate has something to do with the cure of consumption. I am sure that the serum would act better on a patient in the Riviera than here. The climate is so changeable in New York that the consumptive is clearly at a disadvantage. There is no doubt that a consumptive in earliest stages may be cured by a change to the proper atmosohere. But how many can afford a change to a milder climate? And, certainly, even If they could afford it, it is not in more than one case out of ten that they would be

If we can cure consumption in the first and second stages in New York with the serum the great end will have been ac-But, mind you, I promise nothng. Professor Maragliano promises nothing more than what he has stated. Wait a month! Perhaps, two months! Then shall know. It is my own opinion that the Professor has proved that consumption in the first and second stages is curable, and that nothing can ever replace a lung that has been destroyed. The principle of Professor Maragliano's serum is simple enough. It consists simply of the serum of animals which have proved refractory to the bacillus of consumption Thus far the Professor has used the norse to gain his serum. The formula, which constitutes the details of his system, it may be repeated, he has not yet given to the late a Guinea pig with Koch's tuberculine. The pig died. A second pig, after moculation with Koch's tuberculine, was inocuated with Professor Maragliano's serum,

Two wells. a number of springs, a pond and a brook supply the farm with an abundance of water. The land lies high, faces the south, in one volume, by Molly Elliot Seawell, and its gentle rolling assures freedom from swamps and health to crops and pupils. The North Penn railroad runs through the grounds, and the location of a station and a siding, within a few squares of the prop-erty, has been agreed to by the Philadelphia & Reading Ratiroad Company. The farm has the additional advantage of being located immediately opposite the Burpee seed farm, on which the pupils will secure most excellent schooling in one of the most important branches of agriculture, and thus save the expense of maintaining a similar, and naturally less complete, plant on the grounds. Experts who have examined the farm report its soil to be well suited for diversified farming, also for dairying and stock raising. In fact, they pronounce it to be

Dr. Krauskopf has received many encouraging letters from all parts of the country, and while on his lecture tour received numerous offers of land. Mr. Isidore Bush, of St. Louis, offered to give forty acress of fine land in Missouri, specially adapted to fruit-growing and stock-raising, worth $4,000. This land is to be purchased by the trustees of lectures delivered by Rev. Willow F. Crafts before Princeton Theological Seminary and Marietta College. Mr. Morris Tuska, vice president of the United Hebrew Charities of New York, says, in a letter inclosing a subscription: "I feel that an enterprise that will assist in again making the Jew a tiller of the soil should have such universal support as to be at the beginning an assured success. is being delivered in the Eastern cities, it is said by Mr. W. E. Curtis, who is in Washington, that its perusal will serve to detract from the interest which the an-Sherman's book has excited. Aside from the last chapters, which are of great interest to political people, the whole book is most entertaining, because Miss Dodge, as an ad-mirer of Mr. Blaine, has given her well-known brilliancy to its pages. One of the most interesting features of the book is the letters of Mr. Blaine written to friends and members of his family, which present him in an altogether different character than that of the public man. The first edition tended for young readers, and are called respectively "A Quarterdeck Story" and "A Fok'sle Story." They are stirring stories of the sea. The first one tells of how a young fellow, who hated study and had never been made to go to school, learned the lesson of self-control, and by a series of disgraceful failures to pass his examinations for Annapolis, learned by experience that the important things of this world are accomplished only by the hardest kind of work. The success which came to him this lesson was learned. The second story deals with a famous incident of the English
